Hunterdon Land Trust Hosts Native Plants Program on April 26

Hunterdon Land Trust will host its first Conservation Conversation titled "How Does Your Garden Grow?" on Thursday, April 26 at 2 p.m. at the Dvoor Farm, 111 Mine St. in Raritan Township.

"How Does Your Garden Grow?" invites everyone to participate in an open discussion on the value of native plants and gardening. Joyce Koch will facilitate the discussion to be held in the wagon house. Koch is a master gardener, member of The Native Plant Society of New Jersey and long-time HLT volunteer.

This event is free, but please register in advance by emailing judy@hunterdonlandtrust.org or calling 908-237-4582. Light refreshments will be served.

Conservation Conversations are peer-to-peer learning opportunities -- not lectures. Everyone is encouraged to participate in an active discussion on a variety of thought-provoking topics while meeting others who share your interests.

Future Conservation Conversations will include a discussion on local food on June 11 at 2:30 p.m.; and equestrian recreation on September 12 at 1 p.m.
